

Optics for the real world

Comar Optics Ltd

RoHS & REACH statement

Manufacturers globally are under considerable pressure to demonstrate conformity to ever-tightening regulations regarding substances included in products that they manufacture.

Comar Optics recognise the vital importance of compliance to our customers and end-users, and have systems and procedures in place enabling us to supply products that meet and exceed these requirements. Designated Comar personnel are engaged in proactively following forthcoming and current legislation in order to keep aware of these constantly changing requirements.

Whilst the majority of products supplied by Comar Optics are not electrical and electronic equipment the optical components and subassemblies we supply are incorporated into such equipment and it is therefore essential for our customers to be able to obtain RoHS compliant product.

Product-specific certification is available where applicable and on request.

Regulations that may apply include:

- RoHS (Restriction of the Use of Certain Hazardous Substances in Electronic and Electrical Equipment).
 - EU RoHS (latest versions)
 - UK RoHS as applicable.
 - Similar RoHS regulations affecting many other countries as applicable.
- REACH (Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals)
 - EU REACH (latest versions)
 - UK REACH as applicable.
 - Similar REACH regulations affecting many other countries, as applicable.
- Conflict Minerals - see separate policy
- Origin and preference certification
- North America - there are differing federal, provincial and state regulations as applicable.

Important: This statement is not a certificate and does not form part of any legal contract but sets out general principles. It may be reviewed and updated at any time. Product-specific certification is available where applicable and on request. It is important to confirm certification is available to match your requirements prior to specifying or ordering product.
